Classroom News

Students had a great time learning about Dr. Seuss this past week. Thank you again for sending in some of your personal books for the class to enjoy. Students are still working on some fun activities and will be done with the books soon.

In math, students will test on graphing either Tuesday or Wednesday of next week. After that, we'll start measurement and time. Both of these concepts can be difficult for students.

Social studies homework on drawing a map of their bedroom is due on Monday. Science homework will go home next week.

Lastly, don't forget our Scholastic Book order is due today!

Enjoy your weekend!
